

Delta Global Hard Assets Portfolio

Theme/Sector
SERIES 2

UNIT INVESTMENT TRUSTS

Investment Objective and Principal Investment Strategy

The Delta Global Hard Assets Portfolio ("Trust") seeks to provide total return primarily through capital appreciation. Under normal circumstances, the Trust will invest a substantial majority of the value of its assets in securities of companies that derive a majority of their revenues from activities relating to the mining and distribution of mined resources. The Sponsor has selected Delta Global Advisors, Inc. ("Delta Global") to serve as the Trust's portfolio consultant. The portfolio consultant is responsible for assisting the Sponsor with the selection of the Trust's portfolio and providing ongoing support related to the securities in the portfolio. The Sponsor, with the assistance of Delta Global, has selected stocks for the Trust that it believes have the potential to achieve the Trust's investment objective.

Security Selection

The Sponsor has selected specifically from securities of companies that derive a majority of their revenues from activities relating to the mining and distribution of mined resources. The portfolio consists of companies that Delta Global feels will experience better performance in a period of generally rising inflation, which would put upward pressure on hard asset prices. Only the companies involved specifically in the mining and distribution of these "hard assets" are considered for inclusion in the final portfolio. Hard asset classes include precious metals, base metals and energy.

The Trust portfolio is globally diversified. The selection process utilizes company weightings based on reserve levels, production size, market capitalization, market share and production margins. The weighting of precious metals, energy and base metals companies is based on past performance of hard assets during periods of high inflation.

The Case for Delta Global Hard Assets Portfolio

Delta Global believes there are compelling reasons for a portfolio invested in companies that produce and deliver hard assets, including:

- Diversification beyond companies concentrated in the mining or distribution of a single precious metal: The Trust includes a globally diversified portfolio of companies that mine or deliver precious metals, base metals and energy.
- Global efforts to bolster growth: Fiscal and monetary stimulus programs, which include spending on infrastructure projects, may create opportunities for companies producing or mining the base metals and energy needed to build roads, bridges and mass transit systems. Domestic efforts alone have allocated $150 billion to new infrastructure through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act.*
- A professionally managed portfolio: The Trust may offer investors a way to invest in companies that produce and deliver hard assets without the volatility associated with owning individual stocks.

RISK CONSIDERATIONS As with all investments, you may lose some or all of your investment in the Trust. No assurance can be given that the Trust's investment objective will be achieved. The Trust also might not perform as well as you expect. This can happen for reasons such as these: Securities prices can be volatile. The value of your investment may fall over time. Market value fluctuates in response to various factors. These can include stock market movements, purchases or sales of securities by the Trust, government policies, litigation, and changes in interest rates, inflation, the financial condition of the securities' issuer or even perceptions of the issuer. Units of the Trust are not deposits of any bank and are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. Due to the current state of the economy, the value of the securities held by the Trust may be subject to steep declines or increased volatility due to changes in performance or perception of the issuers. In the last year, economic activity has declined across all sectors of the economy, and the United States is experiencing increased unemployment. The current economic crisis has affected the global economy with European and Asian markets also suffering historic losses. Extraordinary steps have been taken by the governments of several leading economic countries to combat the economic crisis; however, the impact of these measures is not yet known and cannot be predicted. Share prices or dividend rates on the securities in the Trust may decline during the life of the Trust. There is no guarantee that the issuers of the securities will declare dividends in the future and, if declared, whether they will remain at current levels or increase over time. The Trust invests in American Depositary Receipts ("ADRs") and foreign securities. The Trust's investment in ADRs and foreign securities presents additional risk. ADRs are issued by a bank or trust company to evidence ownership of underlying securities issued by foreign corporations. Securities of foreign issuers present risks beyond those of domestic securities. More specifically, foreign risk is the risk that foreign securities will be more volatile than U.S. securities due to such factors as adverse economic, currency, political, social or regulatory developments in a country, including government seizure of assets, excessive taxation, limitations on the use or transfer of assets, the lack of liquidity or regulatory controls with respect to certain industries or differing legal and/or accounting standards. The Trust includes securities issued by companies headquartered or incorporated in Canada. As a result, political, economic or social developments in Canada may have a significant impact on the securities included in the Trust. The Trust may invest in companies that are considered to be passive foreign investment companies ("PFICs"). In general, PFICs are certain non-U.S. corporations that receive at least 75% of their annual gross income from passive sources (such as interest, dividends, certain rents and royalties or capital gains) or that hold at least 50% of their assets in investments producing such passive income. As a result of an investment in PFICs, the Trust could be subject to U.S. federal income tax and additional interest charges on gains and certain distributions with respect to those equity interests, even if all the income or gain is distributed to its unitholders in a timely manner. The Trust will not be able to pass through to its unitholders any credit or deduction for such taxes. The Trust includes securities issued by companies headquartered or incorporated in countries considered to be emerging markets. Emerging markets are generally defined as countries with low per capita income in the initial stages of their industrialization cycles. Risks of investing in developing or emerging countries

RISK CONSIDERATIONS (CONTINUED) include the possibility of investment and trading limitations, liquidity concerns, delays and disruptions in settlement transactions, political uncertainties and dependence on international trade and development assistance. Companies headquartered in emerging market countries may be exposed to greater volatility and market risk. The Trust includes securities whose value may be dependent on currency exchange rates. The U.S. dollar value of these securities may vary with fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. Most foreign currencies have fluctuated widely in value against the U.S. dollar for various economic and political reasons such as the activity level of large international commercial banks, various central banks, speculators, hedge funds and other buyers and sellers of foreign currencies. The Trust includes securities issued by companies involved with the production of certain commodities. Commodity companies include those basic materials companies involved in the production of building materials, aluminum, non-ferrous metals, precious metals and steel, as well as companies that explore for, produce, refine, distribute or sell petroleum or gas products. General risks of commodity companies include price and supply fluctuations, excess capacity, economic recession, government regulations and overall capital spending rates. The Trust includes securities issued by companies in the energy sector. Companies in the energy sector are subject to volatile fluctuations in price and supply of energy fuels, and can be impacted by international politics and conflicts, including the war in Iraq and hostilities in the Middle East, terrorist attacks, the success of exploration projects, reduced demand as a result of increases in energy efficiency and energy conservation, natural disasters, clean-up and litigation costs associated with environmental damage and extensive regulation. The Trust includes securities of companies in the basic materials sector. General risks of companies in the basic materials sector include the general state of the economy, consolidation, domestic and international politics and excess capacity. In addition, basic materials companies may also be significantly affected by volatility of commodity prices, import controls, worldwide competition, liability for environmental damage, depletion of resources and mandated expenditures for safety and pollution control devices. The Trust includes securities issued by companies involved in the precious metals business. Precious metals companies are subject to risks associated with the exploration, development and production of precious metals including competition for land and difficulties in obtaining required governmental approval to mine land. In addition, the price of gold and other precious metals is subject to wide fluctuations and may be influenced by limited markets, expected inflation, central bank demand and availability of substitutes. The Trust includes securities issued by companies involved in the metals and mining business. Risks of investing in metals and mining company stocks include inaccurate estimates of mineral reserves and future production levels, varying expectations of mine production costs, technological and operational hazards in mining and mine development activities and mandated expenditures for safety and pollution control devices. The Trust invests in securities issued by small-capitalization and mid-capitalization companies. These securities customarily involve more investment risk than securities of larger capitalization companies. Small-capitalization and mid-capitalization companies may have limited product lines, markets or financial resources and may be more vulnerable to adverse general market or economic developments. Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. The Sponsor does not actively manage the portfolio. The Trust will generally hold, and may continue to buy, the same securities even though a security's outlook, market value or yield may have changed. Please see the Trust prospectus for more complete risk information.

UITs are fixed and not actively managed. An investment in this fixed portfolio should be made with an understanding of the risks involved with owning various types of investments. Industry predictions may not materialize and securities selected for the Trust may not participate in overall industry growth, if any. There is no guarantee that the portfolio will achieve its investment objective. Units, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original purchase price.

This UIT is part of a long-term strategy, and investors should consider their ability to invest in successive portfolios at the applicable sales charge, if available. There are tax consequences associated with an investment from one series to the next. Investors should consult their tax advisor to determine tax consequences associated with an investment from one portfolio to the next. Units of the portfolio may be well suited for purchase by Individual Retirement Accounts or other qualified retirement plans. Consult an attorney or tax advisor regarding tax consequences associated with units held outside one of these tax-deferred vehicles. Claymore Securities, Inc. does not offer tax advice.
